the 1990s, the number of people with diabetes has increased in all industrialized countries.

Diabetes is a chronic disease, and the long-term consequences of the disease are determined by the degree of glycaemic control. The degree of glycaemic control is determined by the amount of insulin administered, the amount of food intake, and the amount of physical activity.

The aim of this study was to evaluate the effect of a structured patient education programme on the glycaemic control of patients with type 2 diabetes.

The study was conducted in a general practice in the Netherlands. The study population consisted of 100 patients with type 2 diabetes.

The study was conducted over a period of 12 months. The study was conducted in a general practice in the Netherlands.

Dedication . . .

Bruce Koskinen

For the last two decades, the athletic department, students, and fanatic football fans of Maynard have been blessed with the leadership and brilliant coaching of Bruce Koskinen. The ranks of sports fans and aspiring athletes will be sorry to see him leave the position he has held as head coach for the last five years. Not only has he proved to be a masterful gridiron strategist, but the combination of his love for the outdoors and his innovative mind lead to the success of Project Adventure. Both on the field and off, Mr. Koskinen has been a model for students to emulate. It is for these reasons, but most of all for his warm personality and constant smile, that we dedicate this yearbook to Mr. Koskinen in the hope that he might remain a continual part of the MHS experience.

Screening the Senior Scene

High School was a fast-forward chain of events for the Class of '85.

We were all tuned in on different channels . . . some days black and white, some living color.

It was four years of freeze-frame memories and snap-shot moments.

We zoom-in on our high school years for close-ups of the good times.

Let's focus on the flash-backs of these years.

Two hard-working freshman, Carole France and Christine Filz, continue work on the yearbook.

1985 Screech Owl

This yearbook is the product of the concerted effort of many individuals whose dedication must be acknowledged. As editor, I therefore extend my gratitude to the loyal staff, composed of representatives from all classes, for its diligence, without which the yearbook would have perished. Other invaluable contributions include the sports candids in the senior section by Ms. Whittemore, the masterful ink drawing by Dan Sweeney on the front page, and ideas furnished by Neimen Marcus and WGBH's Dial magazine. The key to the yearbook's success, however, was the inspiring guidance and creative brilliance of Beverly-Jean Smith, the staff's advisor and brownie-maker.

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased in the UK, and the number of people with a mental health problem who are in contact with mental health services has also increased (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990, 1994, 1997, 2003).

There is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the quality of care for people with a mental health problem (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990, 1994, 1997, 2003). The Mental Health Act 2003, for example, sets out a number of objectives for the improvement of mental health services, including the need to improve the quality of care for people with a mental health problem (Mental Health Act 2003, s. 145).

One of the ways in which the quality of care for people with a mental health problem can be improved is by ensuring that the care is based on evidence-based practice (EBP). EBP is defined as the use of research evidence to inform clinical practice (Roberts et al. 2002).

There are a number of reasons why EBP is important for the improvement of mental health services. First, EBP can help to ensure that the care is based on the best available evidence. Second, EBP can help to ensure that the care is tailored to the needs of individual patients. Third, EBP can help to ensure that the care is cost-effective.

There are a number of challenges to the implementation of EBP in mental health services. One of the main challenges is the lack of research evidence. There is a need for more research on the effectiveness of mental health services. Another challenge is the lack of training and resources for mental health professionals.

There are a number of ways in which the challenges to the implementation of EBP in mental health services can be addressed. One way is to increase the funding for research on the effectiveness of mental health services. Another way is to provide training and resources for mental health professionals.

There are a number of benefits to the implementation of EBP in mental health services. One of the main benefits is the improvement in the quality of care for people with a mental health problem. Another benefit is the reduction in the costs of mental health services.

There are a number of things that can be done to improve the quality of care for people with a mental health problem. One of the most important things is to ensure that the care is based on evidence-based practice. This can be done by ensuring that the care is based on the best available evidence, that the care is tailored to the needs of individual patients, and that the care is cost-effective.
