

H. S. NOTES AT CONCORD

Nothing shows the efficiency of the guidance department more than the lectures which are now frequently arranged to help students decide what they shall do when they finish school or college education.

The four lectures-discussions which were held last Thursday were especially valuable. The subjects covered were nursing, engineering, large offices and large stores. These topics cover such a wide territory that the majority of the students attended some of the meetings.

Nursing was handled by Miss Betty Updegraff of Simmons College School of Nursing. There was nothing vague or indefinite about the presentation. Miss Updegraff has been through it all herself, knows the difficulties as well as the rewards of nursing and knows just what sort of information a future nurse should have. It was a very satisfying period.

What Miss Updegraff did for the girls, William Alexander, dean of engineering at Northeastern, did for the boys when he showed them what is to be found in the career of engineering. Too often one thinks of this profession as a desk job of charts, blueprints and figures, forgetting the excitement and romance of many of the jobs which the modern engineer finds in this work.

Most surprising was the talk on large stores. Here, too, Scott Babcock, employment manager of Jordan Marsh, showed the "hidden" jobs found in stores. When one walks into a store one may see salespersons, cashiers, floor managers and elevator operators but seldom think of the hundreds of unseen workers, the executives, the advertising staff, the countless office employees, the cafeteria helpers, the maintenance crew, the personal shoppers and many, many others. This world was opened to the fascinated listeners by Mr. Babcock.

The large offices, like the big stores, offer an endless variety of employment, and Miss Nancy Concannon, assistant employment manager of John Hancock, gave a clear and inviting picture of the opportunities which await the industrious and the well-prepared.

Throughout these four discussions the speakers stressed the need of preparation for these jobs as well as for any job by a good education for which there is no substitute.

The halfway-mark of the school year has just been reached and passed. Report cards this week have an added importance since they follow mid-year exams. Not so much time now to save that badly slipping grade or to bring up a B to an A.

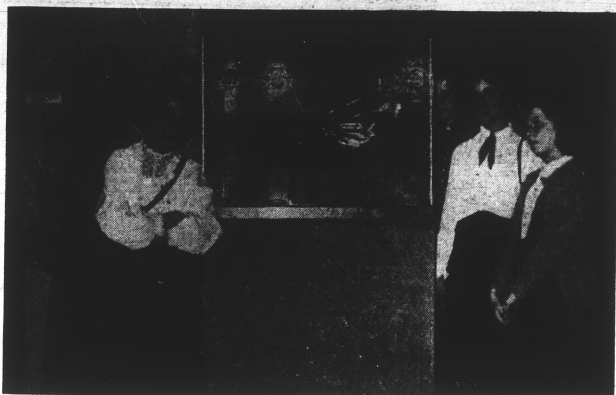

Two substitute teachers seem especially a part of the faculty now as Mrs. Kimball and Mrs. Mathis have been with the school many days since fall and are always pleasant and helpful in their hastily adopted classes.

MORE CITIES SEEK TAXES FROM SUBURBAN AREAS

Chicago (U.P.)—Many cities are turning to fringe areas and suburbs for help in meeting the rising cost of municipal operations.

Minneapolis has doubled its charges for fire department services in unincorporated areas and outlying municipalities. At least 25 cities have turned to income taxes in an effort to have residents of outlying areas, who get their income from employment within the city, help shoulder municipal costs.

The city managers' association said the most recent city to adopt an income tax is Saginaw, Mich. Other major cities imposing income taxes are Philadelphia, Toledo and Dayton, O., and Louisville, Ky.

MAYNARD—Emerson Junior high school students are shown at an exhibit of house fly, magnified 64 times and is believed to be the largest model of its type in the world. Left to right: Kathy Spratt, Carolyn Quirk, Kathy Niemiela, Sandra Larkin, Carol Svera and Dottie Murphy.

Sudbury Folks On Boston Art Jury

Sudbury — Mrs. John Colby served as chairman for an art jury at the recent Poultry Show at the Mechanics Building in Boston. Other members of the jury were Loring W. Coleman, of Sudbury and Prof. William Jewell, head of the Art Department of Boston University.

First prize for the most beautiful bird in the show went to Alan Callen, Pleasant Lane Farm, Hillsdale, New York, for a Salmon Farolite with spectacular colors in rich hues.

Second prize went to Gardner Whitney of Weston, vice president and secretary of the Poultry Show Association, for a diminutive and exquisitely colored Bantam Game Cock, of perfect line and proportion.

Third prize was won with the glowing and subtle tones of a Golden Spangled Hamburg, belonging to Charles Frost of West Boylston, Long Island, New York.

Charleston, W. Va. (U.P.)—Charleston City Police are keeping secret the location of a stop sign which the department said led to the arrest of 45 violators in a two-day period.

Besides creating general caution throughout the city, the police said, the sign also netted the city a $315 profit.

The arresting policeman said that as soon as the sign plays out, he'll move to another.

GRANGE HONORS MRS. A. WHITNEY ON BIRTH DATE

Sudbury Woman Raises Large Family Prominent in Grange Affairs

Sudbury—In spite of the inclement weather there was a good turnout for the meeting of the Sudbury Grange on January 22nd. After a short business meeting fun was the feature of the evening with a pantomime and games. The cast of the pantomime performed like veterans, with special mention for Cliff Giles who had a tooth pulled during the day and enacted his role with one cheek considerably plumper than the other.

In a game "for men only" Steward William F. Hellman proved to be the most adept, and won a corn-cob pipe which he declared was something he had always wanted.

The ladies and gentlemen had a relay game, which the ladies won, the winners being Mrs. Horton, Mrs. Atkinson, Mrs. Nurczynski, Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. Tallant.

Refreshments were served by the committee headed most ably by Mrs. Mary Wilson, and dancing followed in the upper hall. The next meeting of the Sudbury Grange will be February 12th to celebrate both Lincoln's birthday and St. Valentine's Day, as well as some emphasis on Visual Education.

The Sudbury Grange also offers congratulations and every good wish for many happy returns of the day to Mrs. Anna Whitney, who celebrated her 81st birthday, January 7th. Mrs. Whitney has served the Grange well during all the years since 1914 when she joined. Since then she has held the offices of Secretary, Chaplain, and Flora, and has set a fine example to newer Grangers having always been most willing to lend a helping hand when the Grange has needed cooperation.

Her daughter, Miss Hazel Whitney has been a member of Sudbury Grange for a number of years, as well as another daughter, Mrs. Hope Baldwin, who has participated actively as Pomona, Ceres, Secretary and is currently Chaplain of the Grange. A third daughter, Miss Hilda Whitney, has been co-currently for 14 years, Secretary of the Grange, and a secretary that the State Grange Officers consider one of the best in office. Her son-in-law, David Baldwin, has held office in the Grange since 1915. He has held every chair except that of Lecturer and Chaplain and at the present time is Treasurer.

A grandson, Harry Baldwin, has been Gate Keeper and Assistant Steward. He is now a student at the University of Massachusetts. Richard Baldwin another grandson, a student in the Sudbury high school, has been Gatekeeper and is at present Assistant Steward.

Mrs. Whitney has motored a wonderful family and the Grange is very proud of her.

PRICE CONTROL DATES BACK TO 1777 IN N. E. Concord, N. H. (U.P.)—New Hampshire had a price control law as far back as 1777 when inflation also was a problem. Among the ceiling prices were: three pence per pound for the best beef and three shillings ten pence per pound for the best New England rum. A shilling then was worth about 23 modern cents, a penny about one penny.

New Courses At Sudbury School

The Sudbury School Department has announced that two new courses of instruction have been added to the present junior and senior high school curriculum. Courses in Industrial Arts and Homemaking have been scheduled since the opening of school following the Christmas vacation and are now in full operation each day of the week.

Industrial Arts differs from the old concept of Manual Training, in that the objectives of the two are completely different.

At the present time instruction is offered in mechanical drawing, woodworking and two fields of metal work. It is planned to expand the program in the future.

The goal of homemaking education is to teach happier home living.

This is accomplished through teaching, not only the techniques of running a home, the cooking, and sewing and cleaning, but also the philosophy of co-operative home life.

The girls in the homemaking classes are actively participating in the development of the entire course and its facilities.

Two complete modern kitchen units are presently under construction in the Homemaking Department as well as living-room space and facilities for sewing classes and lectures.

Melvin Downing of Waltham has been appointed to the staff of Sudbury Schools as instructor in Industrial Arts, Mr. Downing is a graduate of Eastern

VIBRATING BED CALLED BOOM TO RELAXATION

Birmingham, Ala., (U.P.)—Peace and rest for jangled nerves is the cure that a vibrating bed designed by John V. Henderson gives.

Henderson said that the vibrating bed which he originally designed out of necessity when his wife's back required massaging continually, vibrates at the rate of 600 shakes every minute.

He said he forgot about the improvised massaging method for some 30 years. Then he suddenly remembered it while in a hotel bed on a business trip.

Since then he has tried it out many times. One woman said she could relax and sleep for the first time in years. A doctor said it knocked his wife's pulse down 25 points.
