The officials of the Middlesex County National Bank held a social showing for the officials of the banking institution, last Tuesday evening at the newly renovated bank headquarters. They were a distinguished group who came from all the units which extend as far away as Lowell, Malden, Billerica, Stoneham, Medford, Everett, which is headquarters. Among those attending included: 3 in Medford; 2 in Cambridge; 2 in Somerville; the entire board of selectmen. A buffet luncheon was served. The popular president Medville Clark was a gracious host and was assisted by his entire staff of employees. Several of the directors acted as escorts in pointing out the modern equipment of the bank which is recognized as one of the finest in the group that graces the Middlesex County Group. With spring just around the corner it is suggested not to put the snow shovel away yet!!!

THE HOME TOWN REPORTER

IN WASHINGTON
WALTER SHEAD AND CORRESPONDENT

The Weekly Press

As we go into a new year to re-affirm our belief that to have democracy as a form of government in these United States, it is essential to (1) believe in the principles of democracy and (2) to have confidence in our democratic government.

This is an election year and indications are that controversies in the campaign will be bitter. The electorate must learn to distinguish facts from lies, the real from the phony. And above all, the electorate must not lose confidence in the government.

The American people are, by and large, able to determine their own destiny. They have done a pretty good job up to now. Once in a while they make a mistake, but at the first opportunity they generally correct those mistakes. That is the record of the past and the saving value of our system of elections.

The election this year is an important one. We not only elect a new house of representatives, but also 32 members of the senate and a President and Vice President. Of the 32 senate members, only 12 are Democrats and 20 are Republicans. Of the 12 Democrats, only two seats are in danger of Republican succession, but at least six of the 20 Republican seats may be captured by Democrats.

If the people of this country are to be well informed on the real issues of this campaign, the responsibility will rest upon the weekly and small town daily press of the country. The responsibility of getting this material to the grass roots press rests not only upon the candidate, but the Republican and Democratic national committees.

The metropolitan newspapers carrying a criticism today are the same ones who have done so for the past 25 years, that is, through five national elections. They represent 90 per cent of the newspapers in the metropolitan field and more than 90 per cent of the circulation. However, these newspapers have had little or no influence with the American people en masse, representing as they do the thinking of only a small segment of the people. And despite their determined opposition, they have lost every national election on every issue since 1932.

Real and Sham Issues

They will lose the 1952 election because the American people still have confidence in themselves and are able to distinguish the real from the sham issues. Recently an accurate and comprehensive poll of weekly newspaper publishers of the nation indicated that President Truman would be the Democratic nominee and he would be reelected. Every poll of metropolitan newspaper points to the defeat of President Truman. Polls by these papers predicted President Truman's defeat in 1948, while the grass-roots editor's poll predicted his election.

Newspaper Policy

This reporter has a great respect for the newspaper profession. But we have little respect for a newspaper which orders its reporters to stant the news, to write "policy" stories. There can be enough criticism of any administration without manufacturing issues and writing half-truths, without using the slanted headline which in no way bears out the story; and without asking questions in press conferences of the "have you quit beating your wife?" type.

RFC Report

Apropos of what we have just written, have any of you read a story about the annual report of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation? It is important for the reason that it covers the operation of the corporation during the fiscal year ending July 1, 1951, the period of alleged "graft and corruption" in RFC.

The report submitted by Stuart Symington, administrator, shows that $16,345,812 was turned to the U.S. Treasury as dividends on the capital stock of $100,000,000—a fact we doubt was equated in private industry in this country.

In addition, the corporation turned over to the treasury $75,000,000 net profit on its synthetic rubber and tin operations, and $4,000,000 net on liquidation of assets of the old Smaller War Plants Corporation, a total of $85,345,812 for the year.

The Shakedown

The fines levied against the four Hungarian airmen forced down in Hungary by that country's Communist government is being called tribute by many Americans—an ugly and degrading word to Americans since the birth of the Republic. It brings to mind Robert George Harper's dramatic declaration against paying tribute to France during the undeclared war of 1798: "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute." Hungary demanded $120,000.

A MEASURE TO LIMIT SPENDING

A bill that would place a legal limit on the amount of money that the government could spend has been promised for consideration by Congress at its next session. Representative Couderd of New York has said that when Congress assemblies he will file a resolution to fix a ceiling on Federal spending for the fiscal year which begins on July 1.

The New York representative proposes a figure of 71 billion, which is the sum that is anticipated in revenues for the year.

It has been indicated that a budget in excess of that figure would be submitted. It has been said that it might be in the amount of 83 billion dollars.

A curb on government spending of more money than it takes in is something to be considered with a lot of interest, but whether such a measure will be passed or not is something of another matter.

One of the finest methods by which economy can be accomplished is to reduce expenses to fit income. The discovery of "new revenues" is merely another designation of new taxes and cases no burden on the taxpayer, but increases it.

DIFFICULT INQUIRIES

While stories of teen-age delinquency are undoubtedly exaggerated, efforts of authorities to get at the bottom of charges are always difficult.

Because of the nature of charges, which include the use of liquor and drugs, inquiries cannot be held in the open without casting reflections upon the families of those involved. Officials who have made a study of the situation say poor home training is responsible—that parents are to blame for the conduct of juvenile delinquents.

The sheriff of one Kansas county, who started to dig into charges, says he was at every turn. Those supposed blocked at every turn. Those supposed to know about the situation, refused to become involved. Naturally, parents were the last to admit their children were guilty of misconduct, and refuted the charges as malicious gossip. Lacking evidence, the sheriff's efforts were fruitless.

Exposure of misconduct is harmful to any youngster and could ruin a life. Correction of a situation which is causing wide concern is in the hands of parents. It is a matter of personal responsibility for every parent.
