In closing this, our seventeenth annual report, we desire to call the attention of the voters to the vote at last April town meeting, appropriating $1000.00 for a sewer or drain pipe on that part of Summer street extending from the railroad to the river. The Selectmen were chosen a committee to do the work. We find the distance between the two given points to be 1150 feet, and think an 18-inch pipe will be required to successfully drain that part of the town in heavy storms and freshets, owing to the large extent of watershed in that immediate vicinity. First-class 18-inch pipe will cost, delivered on the trench, 93 1-2 cents per foot, or a total of $981.75 for 1050 feet, the smallest amount that could be put in with satisfactory results. This would leave but a small margin of the appropriation for labor. In view of these facts we thought best to leave the matter with the town for any further action it might take.

Our financial report shows an expenditure on account of poor in hospitals and asylums of $1101.34, leaving a balance of $1959.79 paid for home poor, an increase of between $300 and $400 over last year, notwithstanding four have died within the year, who were fully supported, and three who were receiving partial support. We are inclined to believe that a small farm on which the town could keep its poor would be economy.

There has been a considerable amount of money expended in and around Glenwood Cemetery during the past year, and we are satisfied that it was money well spent. A substantial stone wall has been laid around the old Turnpike school grounds, enclosing them with the cemetery proper, thus enlarging and improving the appearance of the cemetery and surroundings. In the yard wheel guards have been set at all corners where the avenues intersect, thereby protecting the edges and banks of corner lots. The Public Statutes provide that the income from cemeteries shall be expended on the same. We are gratified to know that there is a small amount in favor of the cemetery, notwithstanding the extensive improvements of the past year.

Our highways have been well looked after, and some extensive and much needed improvements made. Owing to numerous wash-outs during the summer, surveyor Whitney felt obliged to overdraw on his appropriation, which he did to the amount of 106.11. We congratulate ourselves that we have a good return for the money expended. Beside extensive repairs in grading, like those on Acton street and the Stow road, there have been 410 feet of curb stone laid on Main street, costing about $200.00. We think this a move in the right direction, as curb stone gives a look of solidity to the street, and when once laid insures an excellent thoroughfare without necessitating continual repairs.

Report of the Trustees of the Public Library,

For the Year Ending Feb. 29, 1888.

SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

The generous appropriation of the town for the support of the Public Library has enabled the Trustees to meet the current expenses which have been increased by the addition of the items of rent and insurance, to add 202 new books for circulation, and to close the account for the year with a balance of $88.70 to the credit of the Library.

The local affairs of the Library have been entrusted to Mrs. Sarah F. Nyman who has performed the duties of Librarian in a faithful and efficient manner.

The very small number of books lost, and the unusual amount collected for catalogues and fines indicate that the rules and regulations of the Library have been strictly observed.

We would recommend that the appropriations for the next year be same as the last. As there are a considerable number of books in the Library so badly worn that it would not be economy to have them rebound therefore more money than has been used this year will be needed to replace them, and make the usual addition of new books.

The following is a statement of the number of books and finances for the year :

REPORT

SCHOOL COMMITTEE,

FOR THE YEAR ENDING MARCH 29, 1888.

School Committee, 1887-8.

JAMES F. SWEENEY,	Term of office expires 1888.
ORRIN S. FOWLER,	" " " 1889.
M. HOWELL GARFIELD,	" " " 1890.

The school committee of the town of Maynard submit herewith the seventeenth annual school report with such suggestions as seem appropriate.

Of the general condition of the schools during the year just closed it can truly be said that all the work possible has been performed, but of course we are still far from that perfection that is to be desired in our school system. The report of last year dwelt so fully upon the needs of our schools, that it will be unnecessary to go into the matter at this time beyond calling the attention of the citizens to the great necessity of establishing and encouraging here a good system of education, and even at the risk of repetition we feel called upon to remind them that in justice to themselves and their children they ought to take sufficient interest in the schools to see that they are not merely kept as a matter of form, but that in them the children will have an opportunity to a good education, one that shall combine the higher branches with what is practical, and hence it becomes more and more apparent that the school-work should be reduced to a system and a graded course of studies introduced that will have the effect to give good training to the young mind and thus prepare it for the battle of life. Many people seem to lose sight of the fact that they owe to their children at least a fair education, and this should be given with regard rather to the child's ability and power of acquiring knowledge, than to any limit of age. The Statutes of Massachusetts provide that a child shall go to school 20 weeks in each year until he is 14 yrs. old, and unfortunately hundreds of children finish their education at that age, as the parent seems to forget that there is a wide difference in the capacity of children, and that while a large number may be fairly well informed at that time, others are sadly deficient in even elementary education. In a manufacturing town like ours, where there are so many young people it seems some consideration ought to be given to this matter, and parents should remember that although one of the commandments says "Honor thy Father and thy Mother" it would be well to add to that "Parents honor thy children," and no doubt a better generation of men and women would grow up, if in their early lives, they were granted that inherent right to be school-boys and school-girls, until the age of 16 at least.

The above is given only with the intention of illustrating that it is difficult to establish a perfect course of study, wherein the upper grades a large proportion of the pupils leave school at all times in the year to go to work.

Then again there is another obstacle which stands in the way of progress, that is the lack of supervision. It is impossible for the committee to give much time to the supervision of schools as they are busy with their own affairs, and can give to school work but a limited number of days in the year and teachers must feel that their work is harder where there is no superintendent or supervisor to direct them.

In some towns this authority is given to the principal of the high school, and certain days are employed by him in directing the work of the other schools, his own room in the meantime being in charge of the Assistant. The work of schools during the past year has been interfered with to some extent by the prevalence of diphtheria, and the absence of many pupils on that account.

The disease was confined almost wholly however, to one section of the town, and only the rooms in the high school building were closed. The primary room has never been used since, and ought not to be, as it is an unfit place to put children in. The room was closed by the advice of the physician attached to the Board of Health, and it seemed to have a good effect.

Furthermore Dr. Abbot of the State Board of Health, said he thought it was not a suitable room for a school owing to its being partly under ground.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Of school buildings and the necessity therefor it is needless to say that we ought to have more, and all that was said in the last report on this subject applies with equal force now. At one of the meetings of the joint committee chosen last year to attend to the erection of a new school-house a prominent gentleman who was present at the meeting remarked that "we had enough of barn school-houses now," and he was correct in the statement, but, there has been so much discussion in the past about this matter that we leave it for the future consideration of the citizens to do as they deem best.

In all the rooms some repairs were made during the summer vacation, the walls being tinted a light pale green, and all the rooms are alike in appearance instead of being different in color as before. The Garfield building was painted on the outside, as was also the fence surrounding it, and this it was absolutely necessary to do. During the coming summer the other buildings ought to be painted, as it is economy to keep them in good order.

The Main street yard was graded up even with the sidewalk, but still there is a necessity there for some drainage, as the water settles about the entrance and makes it uncomfortable for teachers and pupils. The fence about this building, like the one on Nason street, is a great sample of what a fence can stand. Both of the fences referred to are a "slanting" reproach to the town and ought to be replaced at once by new ones.

SCHOOL EXERCISES.

Last year's report said all that was necessary in regard to music, drawing and physical exercise. Music never can give very much satisfaction until there is a supervisor or teacher who will take charge of all the schools and visit them at stated intervals. Drawing has not been introduced as yet, although all the teachers had the benefit of instruction from Mr. Bailey, the State Supervisor, during the spring term.

The changing of the school hours we believe has been beneficial, and also the change from three terms of 12 weeks each, to two terms of 39 weeks, as the time lost in long vacations between terms is now more profitably spent in school, and the pupils being obliged to attend school but five hours per day, renders the work comparatively easy to perform.

The code of school rules adopted last year has given general satisfaction to the teachers and committee, and, in most cases, to the parents as well. Of course there are exceptions to this, but no great trouble has been encountered, and these rules may be modified from time to time as the committee may see fit, but they are necessary on the whole for the better government of the schools, and define clearly the duties of teachers and pupils.

There has been but very little truancy this year, as Mr. Fearn, the truant officer, has done considerable work in this line, thus lessening quite perceptibly the cares of the teacher, and the reports of attendance have been good from all the schools.

The evening school did not commence until January 2, as the building in which it is held was closed for some weeks previous on account of diphtheria. The school opened with nearly 100 pupils, and a large per centage of them still continue to attend. The upper room is in charge of Mr. F. H. Harriman of Amherst College, assisted by Miss Lizzie M. Moody, and the lower room is under the control of Miss Annabel Durgin. A great amount of good is done by the evening school, and it is to be hoped that the town will continue it from year to year.

In the High School, Mr. W. B. Allen and his assistant, Miss Lizzie M. Moody, still continue in charge, and are preparing a class to graduate in June. The work of these two teachers needs no praise here as both are well known, and every effort is put forth by them to make the school a success.

In the Intermediate room in this building the teacher is Miss Mary E. Jenkins, and excellent results are achieved by her.

At the Acton street Primary school Miss Edith A. Garfield is teaching two distinct schools, one in the forenoon, and the other in the afternoon. Miss Gertrude Thompson began the year here, but she secured another position, and since then no other teacher has been engaged. Shortly before Miss Thompson's departure her school was made a "half-time" one, as Miss Garfield's pupils from the Nason street school came there a half of each day, owing to the closing of the latter's room on Nason street. When Miss Thompson resigned Miss Garfield took both schools, but her pay has been only $15.00 per week, while she has practically been doing the work formerly done by two teachers, and her success has been gratifying.

In the Grammar school Miss Emily A. Gordon has achieved good results this year, and has worked very hard. Miss Lillian Conant, of the Framingham Normal School, is her assistant, and makes a very capable one.

Miss Annabel Durgin, who graduated with high honors from the Salem Normal School, has taught the Garfield Intermediate school since September, Miss Kenefick having gone to the Leominster High School as an assistant. Miss Durgin is an excellent teacher, and has a model school.

Miss Alice G. Nagle has charge of the Primary school in the same building, and meets with success in the management of the school.

At the Main street Intermediate, Miss Mary E. Felton still retains her position, and her school ranks very high in every way.

Mrs. Rose Winkley, in the Primary room, in the same building, has a very interesting school, and her pupils show the result of her care and perseverance.

All the teachers have worked earnestly and faithfully in the performance of their duties and have taken a deep interest in the welfare of their pupils. They have also shown themselves ready and willing to adopt the suggestions of the committee and labored to carry out their instructions to the letter.

In the financial statement appended hereto, it will be found that there is an unexpended balance in the hands of the committee. It is much better to appropriate the money in this way than to go on each year overdrawing the appropriation. Our schools do not cost us too much now. Out of 348 towns and cities in the State, we stand 167th in the amount expended per pupil, and of 54 cities and towns in Middlesex County, Maynard is 39, so that we are not very extravagant. No money can be better expended than that which is paid out for the education of the young.

Respectfully,

JAMES F. SWEENEY,	} School Committee
M. H. GARFIELD,
O. S. FOWLER,
	of
	Maynard.
