New foundation to advance software standards, develop and provide open software environment

Digital and six other leading computer companies have announced an international foundation to develop and provide a completely open software environment to make it easier for customers to use computers and software from many vendors.

The Open Software Foundation (OSF) will develop a software environment, including application interfaces, advanced system extensions and a new operating system, using X/Open® and POSIX specifications as the starting point. POSIX is an operating system standard, closely related to the UNIX® system, that specifies how software should be written to run on computers from different vendors.

Initial funding for OSF is being provided by the following sponsors: Apollo Computer Inc., Groupe Bull, Digital, Hewlett-Packard Company, International Business Machines Corporation, Nixdorf Computer AG and Siemens Aktiengesell-schaft. OSF membership is available to computer hardware and software suppliers, educational institutions, government agencies and organizations around the world.

The foundation has a management organization, staff, and a funding commitment in excess of $90 million to begin immediate operations. Its initial development will be based on technologies offered by the members and its own research, to be carried out worldwide.

To achieve maximum acceptance for the new software environment, the foundation will provide all members early and equal access to the development process.

The foundation will follow a direction consistent with the international X/Open Common Application Environment, the U.S. National Bureau of Standards Application Portability Profile, and equivalent European and international standards. Where standards do not exist, the foundation will work with standards groups to help define them.

A research institute is being created to fund research for the advancement of applications portability, interoperability standards and other advanced technologies for future foundation use. An academic advisory panel will provide guidance and input to the institute. The institute's research will be conducted worldwide.

The foundation's open software environment will allow vendors to add value through compatible extensions. To encourage its widespread use, it will run on a wide range of single and multi-processor computers.

The foundation's software environment includes a set of application programming interfaces to make it easier to write applications for a variety of systems. The initial set of interfaces will support POSIX and X/Open specifications, and will be extended to include areas such as distributed computing, graphics, and user interfaces.

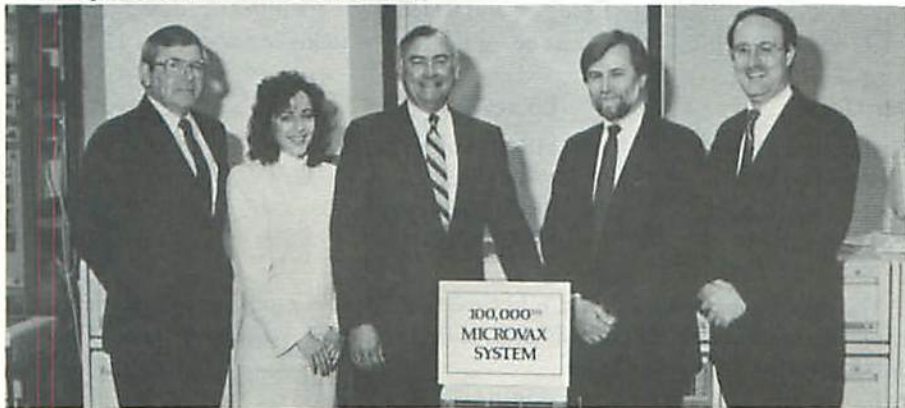

The foundation will base its development efforts on its own research as well as on technologies which will be selected and licensed from member offerings. Technologies being considered by the foundation include:

- Apollo's Network Computing System® (NCS);
- Bull's UNIX system-based multiprocessor architecture;
- Digital's user interface tool kit and style guides for the X Window System®;
- Hewlett-Packard's National Language Support (NLS);
- Nixdorf's relational database technology;
- Siemens' OSI protocol support.

To provide a clear and easy migration path for application developers and end

Digital employee receives MSPCA's Human Hero award

Joe Dzekevich, hardware engineering manager for the HPS Systems Engineering Group (MR1) recently received the 1988 Human Hero Award from the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (MSPCA) for saving the life of a dog named Wooley.

Wooley, a neighborhood dog, was almost strangled by another dog, Whitney, while playing and romping. As Whitney bit at and played with Wooley, her jaws locked around Wooley's collar and neither could part. Wooley eventually passed out.

Joe, who was walking his own dog, spotted the dogs in distress, and rushed to their aid. He took out the pocket knife he received from Digital as a 15 year Service Award, and cut Wooley's collar off before the dog was strangled to death. After the collar was cut off, Joe, who took CPR classes at Digital ten years ago, revived Wooley by administering CPR and performed mouth to mouth resuscitation.

Joe received the award because he went above and beyond the call of duty to promote the welfare of animals. ●

The Marketplace

How 'The Marketplace' works

"The Marketplace" is a free service provided by Digital This Week for Digital employees in the Greater Maynard area. To serve as many employees as possible and keep the ads as current as possible, DTW needs your cooperation.

1. When submitting an ad, please include your full name, mailstop and internal DTN phone number.
2. Please submit only one ad at a time. Multiple submissions will not be accepted. Ads will appear only once.
3. Ads must be submitted in writing (hard copy) and sent to Marketplace, CFO2-3/K23.
4. DTW does not print ads for services (babysitting, snow-plowing, etc.) or profit-making enterprises. Ads must be worded clearly, typewritten or printed, and in good taste. DTW reserves the right to edit for space.
5. Ads are printed on a first-come, first served basis, as space allows, regardless of category. Due to the heavy volume of ads, allow four to six weeks for your ad to appear.
6. Ads can be cancelled simply by calling the Marketplace office. If an item has been sold, please cancel the ad so that space can be opened for another listing. If you have any questions about the Marketplace guidelines, call the DTW office at DTN 251-1308.

Digital Management Education to pilot courses in managing change

Digital Management Education will offer two new programs, primarily, to help first-line managers handle the process of change. The first course, "Strategies for Successful Change," will be held on June 15 - 16. The second course, "Strategies for Implementing Change," will be held from June 27 - 29. Both courses will be held in Bedford.

"Strategies for Successful Change" instructs individual contributors to be active participants rather than passive recipients of change. "Strategies for Implementing Change" is designed to provide tools for first level managers faced with the challenge of maintaining personal and organizational effectiveness in times of change.

For more information or to register, please contact the DME registrar at DTN, 249-1880/81/82. ●

Operator Training Program to be offered in July

DIS Training and Education has announced that the Operator Training Program (OTP) will begin on July 25. The application deadline is June 17.

The OTP is designed to train Digital's full-time personnel who are eligible for transfer to become Computer Operators. The seventeen-week program consists of one week of orientation, four weeks of classroom training and lab, followed by twelve weeks of on-the-job training.

The twelve weeks of OTP will be spent working in the sponsoring manager's Data Center. Formal training includes hardware, software and communication concepts, data center procedures and standards, and an emphasis on verbal communication skills. The hands-on laboratory experience is focused on the VAX system.

Upon satisfactory completion of the program, the trainee will be promoted to an Operator II (D61) and will work in the sponsoring Data Center on a full-time basis.

Participation in the program requires a minimum of a one year commitment to work for the sponsor after program completion (total of one year and 17 weeks). Additionally, there must be commitments by the trainee to not take any time off during the training and be flexible concerning work shifts. Data Centers operate on a 24-hour, seven-day week basis.

For further information about this program, contact the OTP Coordinator at DTN: 273-3427 (617-264-3427) or OTP Manager, at DTN: 273-3236 (617-264-3236). ●

Digital 'Safe Driver Competition'

Digital Fleet Operations (NRO) will sponsor the fifteenth Annual Safe Driver Competition on Saturday, June 11 (rain-date, Sunday, June 12) at 8:30 a.m. in the NRO1 parking lot in Marlboro. All employees are welcome to watch the drivers demonstrate why truck drivers, van drivers and dock equipment operators are considered professionals.

Contestants from Digital's fleet (truck drivers), van fleet (shuttle drivers), and dock equipment operators (Fork-lift, Walkie-Rider), will compete on courses which will test their judgement, skill and accuracy in vehicle maneuvering. The courses are similar to, or in some cases, more difficult than those used in state and national competitions. ●

An Evening at the Mystery Cafe

On Thursday, June 23, Hudson's Employee Services and Recreation will sponsor an evening at the Mystery Cafe (738 Mass. Ave., Boston), a dinner theater with murder (not you of course) on the menu. The dinner theater begins at 7:30 p.m. (doors open at 7 p.m.)

Recognition for Hudson Employee Participation Quality Circles

During the past year, nine members of SCO Manufacturing in Hudson proposed and implemented a program to save over $300K per year. This was accomplished by an Employee Circle working to improve a process within their work area. Although the purpose of Quality Circles is to bring about improvement in quality of work life, there are times when substantial work through the Circle Program includes improving communications, productivity, morale, processes, products and the overall quality of work life.

An employee circle program has been in operation in the Hudson facility for the past five years and continues to expand throughout SCO. There are currently 22 active Circles within manufacturing and its support groups. Employees meet voluntarily as a team in their work area.

Four of these circles were recognized for excellence and outstanding achievements at the site's first annual Reward and Recognition Day.

The Circles were presented with plaques, to be hung on a recognition wall within the Hudson facility, and individual awards for their accomplishments. There were four categories of awards presented: circle of excellence, achievement award for opportunity for financial savings, achievement award for improved quality of work life, and achievement award for project solution that had the most impact to other businesses. The selection of circles to receive awards was done by the program's Steering Committee after specified criteria was met by all circles.

The Circle of Excellence Award was presented to the Document Control Quality Clan: Chris Woolard-leader, Nancy Paul-leader, Jan Taylor, Sandy Swenor, Dave Lyons and Marilyn Febles. This circle demonstrated the true meaning of team work through the quality circle.

Chem Busters, QA Chemical Lab, received the Improved Quality of Work Life award. Recipients were Kevin Brown-leader, Dean Bourque, and Bob Frechette. The Circle found the solution to the continuous Fe and Cr contamination in the FAB II sinks. The contamination was due to the construction of the pumps used in the sinks. This project alleviated much frustration over the unexplained contamination and also made inspectors aware of the importance of not over filling sinks.

The Brady Bunch, Diffusion Second Shift, was presented with the Opportunity for Financial Savings Award. As a result of the work this circle completed, there is now a system on-line to track monitor usage.

The Impact to Other Businesses award was presented to Mark Herrick-leader, Peg Larmand-leader, Jon Riel, Anne O'Connor, Maryellen Labbe, and Beverly Madden. This circle developed equipment specifications for incoming inspection.

A pioneer plaque was also presented to past inactive circles (from 1983-86) in recognition of their contributions to the manufacturing business.

At the awards ceremonies, speeches were made by Bob Palmer, vice president, Semiconductor Operations; Vic Aramati, SCO Group quality manager, Bill Robinette, Semiconductor Operations Group manager for Manufacturing and Technologies, and Ruth Rawa, U.S. VLSI operations manager. ●

Students receive Digital Secretarial Career Sponsorship Fund awards

Six students were recently selected as recipients of the Digital's Secretarial Career Sponsorship Fund. This fund which is supported by the Digital Women's Advisory Committee, has been created for second year Executive Secretarial/Office Administration students at area junior colleges.

Awards totaling ten thousand dollars were granted to the following students: Tracy Tanner and Tanya Manning, both of Aquinas Junior College in Newton; Stacy Cucurullo of Endicott College in Beverly; Courtney Woo of Katharine Gibbs School in Boston; and Beverly Cruz and Annie Soto, both of Quinsigamond Community College.

Those who were recognized during the awards ceremony include (left to right): Stacy Cucurullo, Tracy Tanner, Ann Jenkins (Secretary to the President of Digital), Edwina Dyer (FSL Personnel Consultant and Chairperson - Women's Advisory Committee), Suzanne Manley (Sponsorship Administrator - GMA Employment), Beverly Cruz, Annie Soto and Courtney Woo. Missing from the picture is Tanya Manning.

Recognizing the value of the professional secretarial role, Digital is actively involved with many area educational institutions. The sponsorship award program was established to recognize Digital's support for qualified students who have chosen the professional secretarial job as their career. ●
